Letter from the Editor

It's 2022! I hope everyone had a wonderful holiday season filled with love, joy, warmth, family, and all of the other good and wonderful things. Now that the holidays are over and everyone is settling back into to normalcy, it's easy to view the year ahead as just another year we all have to get through until the holidays come back around, but it doesn't have to be. Channel the feelings that you love about the Advent season throughout every day. Love others. Spend time with those you care about. Do random good deeds. Bake special treats. In my family, we always say life is too short to only make your special recipes once per year. Just kidding. We don't actually say that. It's a good thought though!

Now onto our club. After such a wonderful last year, it's hard to imagine how 2022 could even attempt to be better. We are going to try though! We are hosting the 2022 Central Region Meeting which should prove to be very fun and exciting. We need everyone's help so please reach out to Rena and Diana to see where we need you. It's also time to renew memberships and invite friends to join. A new member form is included on page 18.

Now... I'm sure you've all noticed something different. I'm not Sheila! Sheila has prepared our monthly bulletin for years, and won several awards in the process. I hope I can follow in her footsteps and make her, and all of you, proud.

January 2022

Happy New Year everyone! I hope you all had a blessed and safe New Year. The Board had our first Board Meeting for the new year and quickly got down to business! The Board approved the 2022 Committee Chairmen, you will be able to find the Committee information in this month's bulletin. We also signed the contract to hold our monthly meeting at The Forum. So personally, I think we have started off on the right foot.

Our Committee Chairs are full, but there are still plenty of openings on each committee that are needing to be filled by the membership. It's a new year and a new "You" so please take this opportunity to challenge yourself and fill in one or two of these positions that are open. I know each committee will be greatly appreciated by your presence. Just a little reminder for the 2021 Chairmen, if you have not done so already, please remember to pass along your files to the 2022 chairmen.

Philana Thompson, our 2022 ADDC President, stated in her letter that the 2021 ADDC Board will be holding the annual Budget and Planning meeting on January 15th at the Sandia Resort & Casino in Albuquerque, NM. If anyone has any questions, concerns or comments please let me know and I will notify the Board. Please take a few minutes to read over her letter and our Central Region Director, Jamie Sabata's letter and see what is coming up this year.

The Central Region meeting will be April 28th through May 1st here in Wichita Falls, Texas. Rena Shaffer and Diana Walker are Co-GAC's for the Regional Meeting, they are needing help and ideas so prepare for an amazing meeting. Please reach out to them if you have any suggestions or would like to lend a hand to help on the committee. The ADDC Convention is set for September 21-25 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. A lot of great adventures in our near future I really hope that you will be able to join us.

Please do not forget to send your membership renewals to Diana Walker, on the Membership Committee, at dwalker@sjoc.net. The deadline is February 1, 2022. If you know of someone who may be interested in Desk and Derrick, please reach out and encourage them to attend a monthly meeting, which may lead to a possible new member!

Contact Jordan Jackson, Bulletin Chair, if you have any special occasions happening this year, like a wedding, high school or college graduations, births, etc., and she will include them in the bulletin.

Our Membership meeting will be Wednesday, January 19th, at the Forum at noon. Our speaker will be Rena Shaffer with Eagle Oil & Gas and Diana Walker with Stephens Engineering and their topic will be "Learn More About Desk and Derrick, the Industry and You". I hope that you all will be able to join us.

Stay Well and Safe!

January 2022!

Happy New Year!

Time has been passing quickly and the last two years we've continued to live and work in a kind of social limbo, with more and more of our normally face-to-face interactions being conducted via virtual platforms.

Nowhere in our association activities has the pandemic been felt more acutely than in our in-person meetings at all levels! This in turn has made it more difficult for our clubs to attract members as well as to keep its current members engaged.

Our association is not the only one that is struggling with membership! From the changing dynamics of our association, and no doubt from your own experience, you can see that acquiring and retaining members are the big challenges for ADDC. These challenges have been growing as older members retire and potential new members don't see the value proposition that our association offers.

The four main problems are: delivering value, engaging members, reaching millennials, and adopting leading edge technology. This list can certainly be expanded, but these are the top four.

We will be having our first in-person budget and planning meeting since 2019. Membership recruitment and retainment will be our top priority. We will be tasked with finding ways to help the clubs grow and prosper! I would ask that if you personally or your club have ideas and thoughts on how the association needs to help its clubs fulfill this huge undertaking please don't hesitate to call me or email me directly.

Budget and planning will be held January 15th, 2022 in Albuquerque, NM at the Sandia Resort & Casino. This location is also where the 2023 Convention is set to be held.

Your regions are still needing volunteers to serve in committee roles! Please don't let the fear of the unknown keep you from jumping in and lending a hand!

One last note that registration deadlines are quickly approaching for membership renewals and dues, proposed changes to ADDC Bylaws and Standing Rules, and 2022 Regional Director Nominations! Be sure to reach out to your regional directors or myself for questions or concerns.

Prayers and Blessings for a Happy New Year!

January, 2022

Hello and Happy New Year!

Oh gosh....my first letter as Central Region Director! What the what?! This has been a goal ever since I became a member and attended my first region meeting in 2014. Seriously didn't think it would happen so quickly though! Ha!

Congratulations to all the newly elected 2022 ADDC board members and club officers! I am looking forward to working with you all! First business will be the board budget and planning meeting, January 15, 2022 at the Sandia Resort and Casino in Albuquerque, NM. Same place where the 2023 Convention will be held. I am so excited to meet with the other ADDC board members and check out the resort!

My theme this year is "Embrace Change", which was the same one I used back in 2018 as the Liberal Club president. It just felt it would be fitting for this year due to the ongoing changes we've been facing in the last 2 years. Whether we like it or not, everything changes for one reason or another. Change can be for the good and sadly, for the bad as well. We just have to embrace it and keep moving forward.

Here's a little info about myself: I grew up in Hooker, OK and was a bit of a tomboy, I learned how to pack wheel bearings and change oil on the family car before I knew how to style my hair. Seriously, instead of playing with Barbie dolls, I was outside learning car stuff with my grandpa and dad. With that knowledge, I've had a successful career in material management in the automotive, oil and gas industry and I'm currently working for Air Products in the Gardner Cryogenics/Rotoflow Division.

Save the Date! Central Region meeting- Wichita Falls, TX April 28-May 1. Rena Shaffer and Diana Walker are Co-Gac and they along with the other club members, are planning an educational and fun weekend for all who can attend.

I am still in need of a few more region committee reps and will be sending an updated list with those open roles. Please share with your members.

December Membership Meeting

December 14, 2021

Speaker: Shirley Bridwell

"Will Your Light Shine in 2022?"

Officer Installation

By Diana Walker

Our December Membership meeting's speaker was Shirley Bridwell. Shirley has been a member of the Desk and Derrick Club of Wichita Falls, Texas since 1980 and has held many offices, including 1984 President for our Club. Mrs. Bridwell has recently started her own business, Bridwell Reporting & Consulting, LLC. Her topic was very intriguing, "Will Your Light Shine in 2022?" but that was it! She emphasized that for our club to be successful in 2022, we each needed to shine and share our knowledge with others.

The 2022 Board of Directors will need to show their pride and commitment to the Club for success. The membership is the messenger who will bring forth some new ideas to their newly elected officers who in turn will make good decisions with their members foremost on their minds. It is the members who will send their support and encouragement to the Board.

As each Board member was called to accept their commitment to the Club, they lit a candle showing those present that they will be a guiding light during 2022. There was a little trouble lighting the first few candles and Mrs. Bridwell was heard saying to 'hold it like you are going to shoot the candle!' Then it became a little humorous because the members would tell the next officer to "Shoot it"!! But with all kidding aside, Mrs. Bridwell reminded each officer of their Board duties and if they would make this commitment to their Club. Each officer accepted and became the light for our Club's success!

Continued...

Members installed were Rena Shafer, Parliamentarian; Diana Walker, Immediate Past President; Jordan Jackson and Vickie Young, Directors; Jordan Moss, Treasurer; Lauren Martin, Secretary, Sheila McGaughey, Vice President; and Nichole Harney, President. But there was still one candle not lit on the table, Mrs. Bridwell said this candle was for the members. The members will be the real success of our Club next year, she asked the members if they too would accept the commitment to share the responsibilities of the Club and they all agreed!

Following the installation of officers, our General Arrangements Chair Rena Shafer had a Christmas story for us to hear about "Don't Get Left Out...Make the Right Turn to Serve" as we exchanged our Christmas gift. Each time she read Left, you moved your gift (well, we used our Christmas card instead of the gift) to the left one person and same with the Right word. It got a little challenging when she read two lefts, then a right and then back left because in 2022 you Don't Want to Get Left Out! Rena reminded us that all members should want to Make the Right Turn to Serve! Fun was had by all there!

By Rena Shaffer

Before I LEFT the office today, I was going over all the things I needed to bring for this meeting. I had to make sure I brought the RIGHT reservations list and the RIGHT name badges. After I got here, I realized that I LEFT my gift in the car so I ran RIGHT back out to get it. Enough about all that...let's get RIGHT to business and get this party started!

If you haven't done so already, RIGHT now is the RIGHT time to volunteer to serve on a committee for 2022. We're not political - there are no LEFT or RIGHT extremists here. The decision to participate is LEFT up to you, but I highly encourage you to make the RIGHT decision and participate! Research, ask questions - You'll know which committee is RIGHT for you. So after this party, step RIGHT up and volunteer. It'll make you feel RIGHT good about yourself! If you don't feel RIGHT about chairing a committee, that's okay. You can be a member of a committee that's RIGHT for you and help with its duties. Don't get LEFT out though! We need you to participate and learn more about Desk and Derrick and our industry.

And speaking of volunteering...we will be hosting the Central Region meeting in April. Look to the LEFT of you. Look to the RIGHT of you. Encourage the members on either side of you to participate in this meeting. We're working on field trips, possible seminar, ice breaker at the Horseshoe Winery....and that's just Friday. Business meetings, Contest results and Banquet on Saturday. Let's show the members from our region that Wichita Falls knows how to do it RIGHT!! Oh, and you can sign up tonight too! Nichole has a committee volunteer sheet and Diana and I have a region meeting volunteer sheet RIGHT here!!

Once you volunteer, you'll want to continue to learn more about Desk and Derrick and our industry! So don't be shy. I know you'll make the RIGHT decision. I feel like I LEFT something out...no, I'm RIGHT. We're done - so let's open gifts!

Petroleum Industry Looks Forward to 2022

By Alex Mills

The price of crude oil has a history of volatility since trading began on international exchanges and the New York Mercantile Exchange some 40 years ago, but the last two years have been unusually high as global economies have tried to cope with the COVID-19 pandemic.

The price of oil traded around $60 per barrel in January 2020 just before the pandemic began. By April, demand for petroleum had crashed and dropped to as low as $15. Prices bounced back in 2021, reaching $84 for West Texas Intermediate in October. But another strain surfaced, Omicron, and traders drove down the price 20% a week ago.

Even though the pandemic has been a key factor impacting oil prices, there are other factors, such as global oil supplies/production, international government policies, and intervention by the U.S. government.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has been trying to manage oil markets for years. In 2020, OPEC and some non-member countries which includes Russia, agreed to cut their production in response to the price collapse created by an oversupply which was created by a slump in demand.

OPEC+ met last week to discuss future production levels and agreed to previously announced quota of increasing production 400,000 barrels per day.

President Joe Biden has asked OPEC+ to increase production further, but the cartel members declined.

Biden decided he would try to drive down gasoline prices by releasing 50 million barrels from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. Releases should begin around the beginning of 2022 and last about six months. Many analysts believe the releases will have little impact on price, but with so many uncertainties analysts find the current supply-and-demand situation unsettling, and additional releases from the SPR is another factor to be considered.

Although the pledges and commitments of countries attending the COP26 meeting should not have any immediate effect on oil price, it does indicate these countries will continue to advocate for further restriction on fossil fuels (oil, natural gas, coal). Highlights of the meeting include support for an international market for carbon trading and commitments of $100 billion per year of support to low-income economies.

As 2021 comes to a close, many factors remain uncertain, but the economies of North America, Asia, India and Europe will have 5% growth and 2022 looks positive, too. Expanding economies mean increased demand for petroleum products. And as long as supply stays steady, prices should remain firm. The Energy Information Administration forecasts Brent, which is traded on the international market, to average between $60 and $70 per barrel. West Texas Intermediate usually trades $2 to $4 less than Brent.

Forecasters Predict Increased Demand and Supplies of Oil in 2022

By Alex Mills

As 2021 comes to a close, energy companies and organizations begin looking at 2022 and start making plans based on supply and demand expectations.

Three organizations that provide market information are the International Energy Agency (IEA), based in Paris and represents countries that are net importers of crude oil; the Energy Information Administration (EIA), based in Washington and is the data-collection and forecasting arm of the Department of Energy; and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), which is a cartel of 13 countries that produce and export crude oil around the world.

These organizations issued their forecasts recently, and the global economy will improve in 2022 by 4.2% , according to OPEC's economic analysis.

Even though all three organizations agree the global economy will continue to improve, the impact of the pandemic remains a significant concern.

"The surge in new Covid-19 cases is expected to temporarily slow, but not upend, the recovery of oil demand that is under way," according to IEA's December analysis. "Global oil demand is forecast to grow by 5.4 million barrels per day (b/d) in 2021 and a further 3.3 million b/d next year, when it rebounds to pre-Covid levels at 99.5 million b/d."

OPEC predicts global demand in 2022 at 100.6 million b/d. EIA forecasts 100.5 million b/d.

Crude oil production is expected to rise, too.

Non-OPEC liquids supply growth in 2022 is 3.0 million b/d to average 66.7 million b/d. Russia and the US are expected to be the main drivers of next year's growth, contributing increments of 1.0 million b/d and 0.9 million b/d, respectively. In October, OPEC crude oil production averaged 27.45 million b/d.

As demand rose this year, global crude oil inventories declined. IEA said stock in OECD industry fell to 2,737 million barrels, some 240 million barrels below the most recent five-year average.

In the U.S., inventories for crude oil, distillate, propane and gasoline are below the five-year average, indicating supplies remain tight going into 2022.

As oil prices rose in 2021, political leaders around the globe began to hear criticism from consumers and many tried to ease the pressure in various ways, including releases from the Strategic Oil Reserves of several nations and price subsidies.

Throw in rising inflation, reduced interest by some banks to finance oil ventures, increased regulations and unpredictable weather and you have many unanswered pieces to the supply-and-demand price puzzle.

The EIA, however, forecasts Brent, which is traded on the international market, to average between $60 and $70 per barrel in 2022. West Texas Intermediate usually trades $2 to $4 less than Brent.

Historically, the oil industry has faced many challenges: some visible, others not so obvious. The new year promises to bring more of the same.

Folks Can Get Upset When Gasoline Prices Rise

By Alex Mills

Some people can become very angry over the price of gasoline.

Some of these fine folks just happen to be members of Congress and even the President of the United States.

Joe Biden, who currently resides at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue but represented Delaware in the Senate for many years, has thrown numerous rocks at the oil industry since his first day in office. He has prohibited the construction of a pipeline, reduced permitting of exploration on federal lands, increased regulation of oil and natural gas production, authorized the release of oil from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, and pleaded with OPEC to increase production. All of these actions are designed to reduce the price of petroleum, or to increase the cost of producing petroleum, or simply to bankrupt oil companies across the U.S.

The Wall Street Journal reported last week about the actions of Biden's climate envoy, John Kerry, who once served as Senator from Massachusetts. The story stated Kerry "has been pressuring banks and financial institutions to reduce their commitments to U.S. oil and gas companies and join the Net-Zero Banking Alliance, which would hobble the ability of oil and gas companies to increase production."

Biden will use the full power of the federal bureaucracy to make life more difficult for oil companies.

The most vocal members of Congress seem to be from states like Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut and Delaware.

Senators have been working overtime to urge Biden to "consider all tools available at your disposal to lower U.S. gasoline prices," according to a letter signed by nine senators all Democrats and authored by Ed Markey (D-Mass) and Jack Reed (D-RI).

But Markey and Reed really want more than lower gasoline prices. They actually want "to reduce our dependence on oil in general."

Senator Bernie Sanders (D-Vt) stated on Nov. 26: "We must stop the profiteering and monopolistic behavior of giant oil companies."

Elizabeth Warren (D-Mass) stated in a news release she "is turning up the heat on big energy companies who are gaming the system by raising natural gas prices for consumers to boost profits and line the pockets of executives and investors." She wants the Department of Justice to investigate.

Why are these politicians so angry?

The six states in the Northeast area produce no oil, no natural gas, no coal. They must import 100%, according to the Energy Information Administration. In 2019 (the most recent data from EIA), the six states consumed a total of 3,231 trillion British thermal units of energy and 2,309 trillion Btu (71%) came from fossil fuels.

These states must purchase their fossil fuel energy from outside the area, which could be a foreign country (possibly Canada, Russia, OPEC, etc.) or maybe another state (Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Texas). When elected officials rely on others to provide safe, reliable and affordable energy to their constituents and there is a problem, it is easier for politicians to blame "greedy" oil producers than take responsibility for their failure.

HAPPY, HEALTHY AND PROSPEROUS 2022!

Analysts Predict Increase in Demand During 2022

By Alex Mills

The oil and natural gas industry in Texas and the U.S. ended 2021 on a positive note as drilling and production increased from declines caused by the pandemic during 2020.

“There has been a noticeable shift in sentiment in the oil market, with an increasing number of forecasts stating that demand destruction coming from the Omicron variant would not be as bad as previous variants due to the absence of widespread lockdowns,” according to Oilprice.com.

“Sure enough, cases have been climbing in key areas, but governments are reluctant to repeat 2020/2021 policies again,” Oilprice.com stated. “Oil demand remained solid in December, essentially trending on par with November levels, whilst global manufacturing activity strengthened globally amidst easing supply chain bottlenecks.”

Activity in Texas increased 25% in 2021 since the pandemic lows.

“A sharp increase in crude oil prices helped push the Texas Petro Index upward in October with posted WTI prices averaging $77 for the month, the highest monthly average crude oil price since October 2014... Natural gas prices are now the highest since 2010,” Petroleum Economist Karr Ingham, author of the Texas Petro Index, said.

Rig count continues a steady climb, and crude oil production in Texas is moving toward 5 million barrels per day (estimated 4.97 million b/d in October). Ingham said the record for Texas crude oil production is 5.4 million b/d in March 2020, which could be eclipsed in 2022.

“Permian production is growing faster than Texas statewide production, which is growing faster than U.S. national production... Texas share of U.S. total production is likely to grow higher than its current 43-to-44 percent in 2022,” Ingham said.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) and other oil producing countries, including Russia, agreed this week to approve an increase of oil production of 400,000 barrels per day.

Production will exceed demand worldwide by 1.4 million barrels a day in the first three months of the year, the group’s Joint Technical Committee stated, compared with 1.9 million in its previous assessment.

The cartel isn’t concerned about adding barrels at a time of surplus because fuel inventories are currently at low levels. Stockpiles in developed nations were 85 million barrels below their average from 2015 to 2019 as of November, according to the report.

In other news this week, the U.S. became the largest exporter of liquefied natural gas (LNG) in December as the increase in investments in LNG plants along the Gulf coast and the rise in domestic natural gas production came online in 2021. LNG exports from the U.S. are expected to grow this year as global demand continues to rise especially in Europe.
