PROS AND CONS BIOMASS

energy4me.org

Biomass is organic material that comes from plants and animals, and it is a renewable source of energy. It contains stored energy from the sun. Plants absorb the sun's energy in a process called photosynthesis. When biomass is burned, the chemical energy in biomass is released as heat. Biomass can be burned directly or converted to liquid biofuels or biogas that can be burned as fuels.

PROS:

- Abundant supply
- Fewer emissions than fossil fuel sources
- Can be used in diesel engines
- Refueled yearly

CONS:

- Transportation costs
- Emits some pollution as gas/liquid waste
- Increases emissions of nitrogen oxides
- Uses some fossil fuels in conversion

ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT:

Most studies have found that producing biofuels usually yields reductions in greenhouse gas emissions provided the most efficient systems are used and carbon dioxide emissions from changes in land-use are excluded.

However, changes in land use can have dramatic effects on greenhouse gas emissions. When forests are converted to farmland to produce feedstocks, or to produce crops that have been displaced by feedstock production, carbon stored in the soil is released into the atmosphere. The effects can be so great that they negate the benefits of biofuels. Repaying this 'carbon debt' could take decades or even hundreds of years. In some cases, it would be more cost-effective to strive for greater fuel efficiency and carbon sequestration through reforestation and forest conservation.

October 2022

The convention has now come to an end, and what a fantastic convention it was! Penny, Three Rivers Club, and the Northeast Region welcomed us and provided not only excellent educational opportunities, great speakers but also fun entertainment that helped us let down our hair!

We are in the process of posting to the ADDC website the presentation slides from the speakers, Memorial presentation, and of course the AIMEE winners.

I have told these people many times what an absolute impressive job they did, but they truly deserve our gratitude.

Voted upon at the convention:

The proposed amendment did have an amendment to the amendment from the floor, the votes were as follows:

Amendment to the amendment:	Did not pass
Amendment:	Passed

Please help me in congratulating the 2023 Board of Directors:

President	Barbara Pappas
President-Elect	Wendy Sparks
Secretary	Jamie Sabata
Treasurer	Kathy Martin
Central Region Director	Val Williams
Northeast Region Director	Kelli Hiltbrand
Southeast Region Director	Susan Miller
West Region Director	Esther Greyeyes
Immediate Past President	Philana Thompson

The 2022 board still has some work ahead of us, but I cannot thank the 2022 board enough for the challenging work they put in this year. Because of COVID, things did not move as the usually do but the board has persevered and worked hard for the membership.

Prayers and Blessings!

Philana Thompson
